STATE RANKS FIRST IN INCREASED POPULATION

Completed Census Figures Show Great Gain by California—Which is now Sixth State in Population—Passes Massachusetts and Michigan in Decade

Final population figures for California have just been issued by the Census Bureau in bulletin form. The population of the State on April 1, 1930, according to the Fifteenth Census, was 5,677,251, which represents an increase of 2,250,390, of 65.7 per cent, as compared with the population on January 1, 1920. This was the highest rate of increase recorded by any state in the ten years since 1920, and the numerical increase was the greatest ever shown by any state in any census period. As a result of this unusual gain, California now ranks sixth among the States in population, having passed Michigan and Massachusetts during the decade.

In 1848, California was ceded to the United States by Mexico, and in 1850 was admitted to the Union as the thirty-first State. The Census of 1850, the returns for which are incomplete, showed a population of 92,597. During the next ten years, the State gained 310.4 per cent. The poulation grew rapidly in the succeeding decades, and in 1890 the first million mark was passed. In 1920, a population of over three million was recorded. The total land area of California is 155,652 square miles, and the average number of inhabitants per square mile in 1930 was 36.5, as compared with 22.0 in 1920.

There are 47 cities in California which had a population of 10,000 or more in 1930. The rapid growth of these cities accounts for the major part of the State's increase. Los Angeles, the largest city in the State and fifth largest in the United States, has a population of 1,238,048, which represents an increase of 661,375, or 114.7 per cent, over its population in 1920. San Francisco, which is the second largest city in the State and the eleventh largest in the United States, has 634,394 inhabitants. Its increase was 127,718, or 25.2 per cent, over its population in 1920. Oakland, the third city, has a population of 284,063, representing an increase of 67,802, or 31.4 per cent. The remaining cities having more than 100,000 inhabitants are San Diego, with 147,995, and Long Beach, with 142,032. Both of these cities first passed the 100,000 mark between 1920 and 1930. There are six cities in the population group 50,000 to 100,000. These cities, in order of population, are Sacramento, Berkeley, Pasadena, Glendale, San Jose, and Fresno. Beverly Hills, with a population of 17,429, had a 2,485.9 per cent increase since 1920, which was the highest in the State. Of the cities exceeding 10,000 inhabitants, 18 more than doubled in population between 1920 and 1930, and 22 first attained a population of 10,000 during the past decade. One of these cities, South Gate, in Los Angeles county, with 19,632 inhabitants, was not incorporated until 1923.

There are 58 counties in California, of which 52 increased in population between 1920 and 1930, and 6 showed decreases. The largest county in point of population was Los Angeles, with 2,208,492, representing a gain of 1,272,037, or 135.8 per cent, as compared with the population in 1920. This was the largest increase, both in rate and in actual numbers, of any county in the State. The second county in population was San Francisco, coextensive with the city of the same name. This county was the most densely settled, averaging 15,104.7 persons to the square mile. Third in population was Alameda county, with 474,883 inhabitants. This county, with 648.8 inhabitants to the square mile, is largely urban in character. San Mateo county had the second highest rate of increase since 1920, with 110.4 per cent. Out of the 58 counties, 37 had a rate of increase larger than 25 per cent. Alpine county was the least densely settled, with 241 inhabitants, or one person to three square miles.

There are 278 incorporated places (cities and towns) in California, 32 of which are shown for the first time in this bulletin. Besides those cities exceeding 10,000 in population there are 48 cities in the population group 5,000 to 10,000. The smallest of the incorporated places is Hornitos, in Mariposa county, with only 62 inhabitants.

A copy of the first series population bulletin for California, giving the number of inhabitants in each county, township, city and town, may be obtained by writing to the Bureau of the Census, Washington, D. C.

W. P. Attorney Meets With City Council

H. M. Wade, attorney for the Peninsula Industrial Conference in its fight to assist the Westren Pacific Co. to secure its permit to build its line from Niles to San Francisco, via Redwood City, conferred informally with the city council Tuesday night, with reference to the development of Redwood's harbor.

It was brought out at the meeting held at the city hall, that the cost of preparing the data relative to possible tonnage and shipping inducements, so that the necessary information may be submitted to the Government, would be from $6,000 to $10,000. This cost, plus that of dredging and other work necessary to provide Redwood City with a harbor is more than the city itself can assume and help must be secured from private interests, it was shown.

The question of forming a harbor district was discussed, and it was brought out that under the existing laws only a county district can be formed, which is not deemed advisable by some of the councilmen.

The councilmen at the meeting expressed themselves as rather reluctant to proceed with any plans regarding the harbor development until after the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission, on the Western Pacific company's application is rendered.

License Bureau Not Affected By Business Slump

Business of Dan Cupid Shows Increase In County During Year

Business depressions may have been felt in other lines, but in the marriage license department of the office of County Clerk Elizabeth M. Kneese the year was a success. In fact, the licenses issued for 1930 were ahead of those of 1929 by 47.

The busiest month of the marriage license department was, of course, June, the month of brides. In that month there were 115 licenses issued. The next highest month of the year was August, in which there were 102 licenses issued.

The total number of licenses issued for 1930, was 947, while in 1929 there were just 900 issued. The number issued each month of the two years was as follows:

	1930	1929
January	62	54

Kiwanis Club Holds Year's Last Meeting

The Redwood City Kiwanis club finished its work for 1930 with a closed meeting, Wednesday noon. Sam Winklebleck, president of the club presided.

B. E. Myers, who is in charge of arrangements for the play "The Whole Town's Talking," which is to be produced by the club, reported that preparations are going forward in fine shape, and a large advance sale of tickets is already under way.

The secretary, James Hedge, read letters from those who had received Christmas boxes from the club, withholding the names of the writers. This followed a brief report by Z. T. Thorning, chairman of the club's committee, which co-operated with the Redwood City Lions club and the Elks Lodge in Christmas charity work.

The new district trustee, John Gill made a brief talk as did also the retiring district trustee, Carl Wagner.

Cops Start Year With Busy Night

Officers Fitzgerald and Fogarty of the Redwood City police department had a busy night Wednesday, in spite of the heavy rain. The two officers made six arrests during their patrol. John Baker, 30, a houseboy, was arrested for being drunk and for illegal possession of liquor; Frederick Hoffman, 30, a laborer, is charged with being intoxicated; Leo A. Fitzsimmons, 27, a clerk, was jailed on the same charge. H. H. McKreigon, 26, retired, was arrested for violation of section 112 of the California State Vehicle Act (driving while intoxicated), and also for illegal possession of liquor; Harold Groom, 27, a plumber, was arrested for illegal possession of liquor, and R. F. Rodreguez, 40, a laborer, was arrested for being drunk.

GRANTED DIVORCE AFTER 27 YEARS

Her husband went out "with other women," beat her and even attempted to choke her, Mrs. Mamie E. Rose alleges in her suit for divorce from Joseph E. Rose, filed in the superior court here Monday. The couple have been married 27 years, their wedding taking place in Seattle, Wash., in 1903. There are no children, according to the complaint, which was filed by Attorney Frank Lee Crist of Redwood City, representing the plaintiff.

LOWER TAXES SOUGHT BY CONSOLIDATIONS

Administrative Policy of Governor-Elect to Indicate Radical Changes in Departments, and Joining of Overlapping Agencies of State

By ELWOOD SQUIRES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 30, (UP)—Radical changes in the governmental structure of California cities and counties, with centralized control over their school and highway expenditures, are being considered by Governor-elect Rolph's administration, it was learned exclusively today of the United Press.

Designed to effect radical savings in cost of government in this State, the plan calls for consolidation of many existing political units and elimination of numerous duplicating offices in city and county government.

An appointive commission, composed of four or five members, would have authority to pass on all budgets for school and highway purposes from the State government down through the counties to the smallest municipality. The same commission, or possibly a like body, would be vested with power to consolidate governments and eliminate overlapping offices.

Setting a daring precedent in government in the interest of economy, the idea has already passed the formative state and is being studied for its practicability in California.

"City, county and State government in California costs the taxpayers about $770,000,000 annually," declared one of those investigating the idea, "yet a constant cry is heard for imposition of more taxes. A tremendous sum should be lopped from the total of more than seven hundred millions by doing away with antiquated features of government. Functions of the State have changed mightily in the last 50 years, yet we still cling to a structure of government that was designed for conditions existing when our present system was conceived."

Fifty years ago, the informer went on to explain, transportation was such that slow means of travel necessitated restriction of county boundaries. Few towns in the State were more than hamlets then and their cost of government was insignificant. Today, one can ride through one county in an hour or travel through several towns without becoming aware of boundary lines.

"Why should these counties, which are so close that two or three can be traversed in as many hours, need separate government?" was asked. "Why do we need two or more city administrations when only the assessor can point out his municipal boundaries to you? By consolidation of counties and doing the same with cities, we could eliminate numerous offices and effect huge savings in cost."

Thousands of school districts exist in California, with each constituting a separate administrative unit, governed by a board of trustees or a school board, it was pointed out. Although a limit on the property tax which may be assessed for school purposes is set by law, wanton extravagance characterizes too many districts, proponents of the plan declared, with not even the county board of supervisors able to interfere, provided the amount expended is within that authorized by law.

"A State commission controlling school budgets would regulate such exenditures, keeing them within the bounds of reason," those investigating the law have said. "In addition it would consolidate districts obviously overlapping. The same applies to highways.

"When the three-cent gasoline tax law was passed many thought it meant a substantial reduction in county road cost. On the contrary there has been a steady increase. The State government cannot boast here, for it has made some very foolish investments in roads."

Considerable opposition to the plan is expected, but the incoming administration will probably not attempt to force any legislation on the subject, embarking first on a program of education, to show advantages of the proposed idea to the public.

Farrell Gains In Election Recount

The contest of Arthur H. Knutte, Lawndale municipal judge, to the re-election of Judge Edward Farrell as justice of the peace in the First township, was dismissed in Superior Judge George H. Buck's court Wednesday afternoon, when a recount showed a slight increase in the majority accorded Judge Farrell. Knutte, an unsuccessful candidate for justice, alleged that the election officers were guilty of misconduct in counting the votes, and that a recount would show him to have been rightfully elected.

Peninsula Man Dies in Crash

Burlingame Man Receives Fatal Injuries in Belmont Wreck

Frank Lussier, 65, of 1497 Bellevue avenue, Burlingame, was killed in an automobile accident at Belmont at 6 o'clock Wednesday night. The crash included three machines. Lussier was driving across the highway when his car collided with one driven by Clyde W. Lindsey, of Watsonville, and one driven by W. J. Wisnom, a police officer of Hillsborough.

The Burlingame man received injuries in the crash from which he died a short time later at the Community hospital. Lussier's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Earl F. Lussier, of Belmont, who was riding with him at the time was also injured in the crash, but her injuries were not considered serious.

Portola Rancher Attacks Wife In Fit of Insanity

Tries Suicide After Striking Wife on Head With Pick Handle

Joe Rogers, pioneer resident of the Portola district, became suddenly insane this week and attempted to kill his wife and then to end his own life. The first intimation that Mrs. Rogers had that her husband was losing his mind was on Tuesday when she found him in a crying fit. Rogers could give his wife no reason for his crying, but said that she would find out the next day.

On Wednesday he appeared rational enough, and sat around the house smoking his pipe. Mrs. Rogers noticed him carrying a pick handle around the yard, but gave it no particular attention when he came into the house again and left the pick handle leaning against the wall inside the door.

A short time later Mrs. Rogers glanced up just in time to see Rogers bringing the pick handle down upon her head. She dodged and the club caught her a glancing blow on one side of the head, which though painful did not render her unconcious. She managed to break away from Rogers and with her young grandson ran to a neighbor's for help.

The neighbor went with her to her home, where they found that Rogers had seized a butcher knife and had cut his throat, and was apparently dying. A call was sent to the sheriff's office and Deputy Sheriff Maloney with Deputy Coroner J. R. Phillips hurried to the Portola ranch.

Reaching the Rogers ranch they found Rogers bleeding profusely from the wound in his neck but still alive. He was rushed to the Community hospital, where it was found that the knife had not severed any vital cords in the neck. Rogers was treated at the hospital and later taken to the state hospital for the insane at Agnew. It is believed that he may have had a temporary attack of insanity and that the spell may pass away. Rogers is 67 years of age.

Stolen Car Found Left In San Jose

The car belonging to the office of Sheriff J. J. McGrath, and which was taken from in front of the home of Deputy Sheriff Leland Quinlan Monday night, was recovered in San Jose Tuesday evening. The car was found abandoned in San Jose, but no trace was found of the person who traded a stolen Portland, Oregon, car for the county machine during the night. The Portland machine was left near the home of Deputy Sheriff Quinlan at San Carlos when the county car was taken.

The car appeared not to have been damaged by its unauthorized driver and except that it was short of gasoline, appeared in no worse condition than when taken.

Sister of Mrs. Pipkin Passes

Mrs. George Koyl, a sister of Mrs. J. Lee Pepkin of this city, passed away at her home in Kansas City, Mo., last Sunday. She had been ill for several months, and three weeks ago, upon receipt of word that her condition had become critical, Mrs. Pipkin left for Kansas City and has been there since.

In addition to Mrs. Pipkin, Mrs. Koyl leaves her husband, George Koyl, and another sister, Miss Betty Yantis of Kansas City.

The funeral was held Wednesday.

HUSBAND INTEMPERATE CLAIM FOR DIVORCE

Alleging intemperance on the part of her husband, Mrs. Leona M. Ashworth filed suit for divorce in the superior court Tuesday against John R. Ashworth. According to the complaint, the couple have been married 21 years and have three children. The wife asks the custody of two of the children and asks the court to award the custody of the third child to the husband. Approval of a property agreement is also sought by the plaintiff in the suit.

SERVICE STATION MAN VICTIM OF BANDIT HE HAD JUST BEFRIENDED

Brutal Shooting by Bandit Places Burlingame Man in Critical Condition in Hospital—Transfusion Given Aids In Chance of Recovery

Befriending a man whom he supposed to be cold and hungry, almost cost the life of Henry D. thom-Wohrden, 59 proprietor of an oil station at the intersection of Peninsular avenue and the Bayshore highway, in Burlingame. The service station man was eating his lunch at the station, Tuesday evening, when a stranger approached and inquired about the bus schedule. He appeared to be cold and hungry and the station man offered him a sandwich and a cup of coffee. These the stranger accepted.

After having eaten the sandwich, the stranger who was sitting in a chair opposite thom-Wohrden, took a revolver from his pocket and told the station attendant to put up his hands and open the cash register. Thom-Wohrden raised his hands, but lowered them to the arms of his chair to assist him in raising. The stranger, apparently very nervous, shot the man as he began to raise himself from the chair. The bullet struck thom-Wohrden in the abdomen and pierced the intestines.

After the shooting the attendant, the bandit took the currency from the cash register, about $17, and fled.

The station man crawled to the door of the station and signaled to a passing motorist, who summoned the police. A search was started immediately for the bandit, but no trace was found of him. Thom-Wahrden was taken to the Mills Memorial hospital, where it was found necessary to remove several sections of intestine. He is still in a very critical condition, but has been given a blood transfusion, and it is thought that he has a chance to recover.

A car stolen from in front of the home of Richard Fisher in San Mateo, was found Wednesday morning abandoned on Ralston avenue, west of Belmont. It is thought the car may have been used by the bandit in making his escape from Burlingame and San Mateo police.

Man Drowned On Coastside Trip

Companion Injured as Wave Crashes Over Rock Where Men Were Standing

The waves claimed another life on the coast of this county, Tuesday, when Wilson Merrell, 28, 39 Navajo street, San Francisco, was swept from Pedro Rock, in the north end of the county. Will Gerken, 963 Capitol avenue, a brother-in-law of Merrill, narrowly missed the same fate, but managed to cling to the rock while a giant comber broke over the rock upon which the two men were standing.

Gerkin made a futile effort to rescue Merrell.

Half drowned and dazed from being pounded against the rocks, he dragged himself upon the rock in time to see the other's body carried out by the roaring waves.

The tragedy was reported Wednesday afternoon to Constable Silvio Landini of Colma, by Gerken, after he and George Lewis, manager of the Pedro Beach resort, had searched all Tuesday night for the body.

The two men and their wives set out on the ill-fated outing Tuesday Gerken said.

In the afternoon, he and Merrell climbed Pedro Rock, a huge boulder towering nearly forty feet above the water.

Suddenly a mountainous comber came roaring in. Gerken saw the wall of water in time to clutch the rock, but Merrell was caught completely off guard.

"I succeeded in getting hold of Wilson," he said, "but I couldn't keep my grip. He was almost unconscious and bleeding from a large wound on the head."

Mrs. Merrell and Gerken's wife were some distance away, but could see their husbands struggling in the waves.

Firemen Greet New Year With Annual Party

The annual New Year's dance of the Redwood City volunteer fire department was held as usual this year in the auditorium above the central fire house, and as is always the case with these affairs, was enjoyed to the full by all those fortunate enough to be present. Music for the occasion was furnished by Heydenaber's orchestra, while for several of the dances the department's own orchestra provided the music.

Just at midnight cords were loosed allowing hundreds of colored baloons to fall upon the dancers, and the department's old fire bell was pressed into service to greet the new year.

After midnight, the firemen and their guests decended to the lower portion of the house where tables had been spread in the equipment room, and a delightful dinner was enjoyed, and this was followed by more dancing. The party broke up at about 4 o'clock New Years morning.

The Coming Year

On Thursday next another year begins. In many ways it promises to open auspiciously. The country's finance and industrial executives have engaged to co-ordinate efforts to relieve unemployment and to insure business expansion and commercial progress. Such an engagement has never before been undertaken in the history of this country.

This engagement calls for investment of billions of dollars. In, buildings, ships, post offices, etc., the government itself will expend more than a million dollars. The railroads will more than match this amount. The several states will put more than this amount into hard surface roads and other public improvements. Not to be outdone, public utility corporations will make investments calling for almost a billion dollars.

And labor has agreed to do its part. It will avoid strikes, give full value received, and make every effort to work hand in hand with capital. This promises much for the success of the co-operative effort to relieve the present unemployment and to restore prosperity and maintain living conditions.

Thus with capital and labor united in the undertaking, there is assurance that amounts to almost a certainty that industry will advance and the people will prosper during the year 1931.

Lend A Helping Hand

It is surprising how many articles of clothing, abandoned but still useful, can be found in the average home. If clean and not too greatly worn, the garments may be repaired, remodeled and put into shape for excellent service. Nearly every closet or storage room in the homes of residents in good circumstances has various articles of wearing apparel discarded and in the way.

Why not sort out the better things and give them to the poor and needy about town who are deserving, instead of having them hang in disuse, to collect dust and possibly moths?

In that way a helping hand is extended and everybody concerned will be happier and more comfortable.

Coolidge's Wise Words

A few days ago, there appeared in Calvin Coolidge's daily column an excellent short sermon on advertising. Having good merchandise is not enough, said Mr. Coolidge. "It is just as essential to create a desire for it. That is advertising." The article concludes: "Goods not worth advertising are not worth selling." Wise words from a wise man. Somebody else put it briefly: "If your business isn't worth advertising, advertise it for sale."

Happy New Year!

The year 1930 has drawn to a close, and with it have closed all of the troubles and vexations which we have for the past 12 months blamed onto the year. Whenever in the past months talk has drifted to de- it's the year. We were due for such a period."

Now, that is past. If we have depressions or other unwelcome conditdions we can't blame 1930. We have a brand new year, and any difficulties must now be borne directly by ourselves. To paraphrase a well-known piece of rhyme, "It isn't the year, it's you."

Yes, 1930 had lots of weak spots but on the whole it wasn't such an awfully bad year. Not as years used to go back twenty-five years or so. True, there has been unemployment; money has been hard to get hold of and easy to let go of; and many families have faced absolute want. But these conditions are not new in this country, and are a part of the general life of many countries.

Now it's 1931, and we have a whole year of 365 days ahead of us in which to improve the conditions which have prevailed in the past 12 months. With a clean slate on which to begin our calculations, the results a year year from now should present better reading.

But looking back on the year just past, there have been so many bright days, that we can well afford to forget the storms. The year has provided much joy along with its more depressing offerings. Taken altogether, though we have lambasted it shamelessly from start to finish, the old year has not been so bad.

For the new year—we hope it will be all joy and no pain. But if it were it would be a miraculous exception. 1931 will be like all other years checked with good and bad. But it is the sincere wish of the management of these papers that you may find during the coming months so much happiness and so little sadness that the former may entirely eclipse the latter when the year again draws to a close.

Killing the Farmer's Friend

A rural mail carrier shot a hawk on the road the other day and when he went to pick it up the supposed dead bird took a peck that put out his eye—for which no one can blame the hawk, says the Salem, Oregon, Capital Journal.

The federal employe broke several laws and regulations. It is against rules to carry a gun on duty, while delivering mail. It is a violation of the State law to shoot on a public highway. A hawk is one of the most beneficial of birds and one of the farmer's best friends, daily destroying its weight in vermin, and as it is useless as food, there, is no justification in its saughter.

As a result of similar wanton slaughter of eagles, hawks and owls, all birds that justify their existence, the balance of nature has been destroyed and a great increase in rabbits, diggers, gophers and mice is causing an economic loss to every farmer in the land. All of these birds should be protected by law to prevent their extermination, which is now threatened.

She is dismissed in disgrace just before graduation.

Chapter 30.

Dr. Dale Randolph, out of sympathey, offers her a position in his office. He does not guess that Sally, while at the hospital, occasionally used drugs to bloster up her energies after gay parties.

Lois provides Sally with a little home in the country.

...Sally falls in love with Dr. Randolph, who has no idea of her feeling for him.

...Randolph meets Lois and likes her at once.

...This is too much for Sally... She again resorts to the use of drugs, and, while in a befuddled condition, tells Randolph she loves him.

Randolph lays the situation before Lois and asks her help.

An anonymous letter linking Lois's name with Dr. Dandolph's reaches James Walton. He telis her that he does not believe the charge, but warns her to avoid any conduct that might cause idle talk.

Chapter 40.

She is convinced that the letter came from Sally. The latter takes an overdose of drugs, in what Lois believes to be a fit remorse, and Lois and Randolph again go to her aid.

He amazes Lois by professing a liking for the doctor and urging that she ask him to their home. Bert visits Sally, whose conduct has terminated her employment in the doctor's office, and she tells him of Lois's marriage and adds that Lois is very unhappy.

Chapter 45.

One Afternoon

Lois was having a rather dull time at a bridge-party that was being held at one of the country clubs to which her husband belonged. She had no interest whatever in cards, and the women with whom she played took the game so seriously that she was painfully conscious of her own lack of skill.

She labored through two rubbers, and then slipped away to the lounge, where tea was being dispensed in the interest of some charity. There was one hostess too few, and Lois was soon pressed into service. She felt that anything was better than that funeral bridge-game. But she had come in at the tail-end of the tea-party, and soon the lounge was almost deserted. She served a few stragglers and then sent a maid to see whether her car had come for her. The maid reported that it had not.

Lois called her home and was told that the chauffeur had left some time ago. "Then I'll wait here," she said. There was a pause, and then the butler's voice: "Dr. Randolph called this afternoon to see Madam. He is still here. He wishes to know if Madam would like him to come to the club."

"Ask Dr. Randolph to come to the telephone," said Lois trying to speak evenly. A moment later he was saying: "Are you marooned? I'll run over for you, if you wish."

As she waited in the lounge, Lois asked herself how long things could go on this way. She saw Dale Randolph often now, and she no longer tried to conceal from herself the fact that she was in love with him. She wondered whether he guessed her feelings. If he had, he showed no sign of it.

Then, with something that was very like a pang of regret, Lois thought of her husband. She had been in love with him, when they were married. Why had their life together been so unsatisfactory to both of them? She knew that he had been as disappointed in her as she had been in him. . . . "It's my fault," she told herself, for the hundredth time. "I must try harder. I mustn't let Dale guess my feelings, and I must keep James from seeing that I am unhappy."

Just then the attendant came up to say that Dr. Randolph was waiting to see Mrs. Walton, and Lois forgot her worries as she went to meet him.

As they drove slowly along the country roads, now almost deserted, they seemed to find conversation rather difficult.

"That's because we see each other more often," Lois told herself. "We're a little bit talked out." But she knew that that wasn't the reason.

It was Dale Randolph who introduced the subject of Sally. "We are like the middle-aged parents of a bad child," said Lois laughingly. "Whenever we are alone, we sooner or later begin to talk over our problem. No. I havn't seen her for several days. Her brother is visiting her."

"I'm glad of that," said Dale Randolph. "Perhaps he'll be able to persuade her to go to a sanitarium. Do you think I ought to have a talk with him?"

"I don't know," said Lois doubtfully. "Sally wouldn't like to have her family know what's happened to her. And, even if you did speak to Bert, it's not likely that he would be any help to us. He's not a very responsible sort of person. Anyway, he would oppose anything that he thought I favored. He — he doesn't like me very well. When I was at home, he was a sort of a beau of mine — at least, he seemed to think that he was, and I think Sally, without really intending to cause trouble, has persuaded him that he was jilted when I married James Walton."

"What rubbish," said Dale Randolph. "Well, he's evidently not a person to be depended upon. We'll have to talk care of our child without any aid from him."

He turned into the great gates at the entrance to the Walton estate, and the lights of his car revealed the figure of a man at one side of the drive.

Lois gave a startled cry. "It's Bert," she said. "What's the matter with him?"

Dr. Randolph brought his car almost to a stop. Bert approached, walking unsteadily. He clambered to the runningboard of the roadster and clung there staring vacantly at Lois.

"Been waiting here long, long time," he muttered thickly. Lois tried to draw away from him, but he leaned toward her and looked owlishly into her eyes.

"Out riding with your new beau?" he snickered.

Dr. Randolph stepped out of the car and tried to force Bert from the running-board. "Stop being a nuisance," he said sharply.

Bert retained his grip on the handle of the door. Randolph took him by the arm. "The drunken idot," he said, in an angry undertone to Lois. "I supose I'll have to take him to his hotel, or where ever he is staying. It won't do to have him loitering about the grounds."

Bert faced the doctor with a desperate attempt at dignity. "You'll apologize for that," he mumbled, and struck at Dale Randolph. The effort caused him to lose his balance and he went sprawling to the ground. Dr. Randolph picked him up and called to Lois: "Please go to the house. I'll take care of him."

Before she could obey, the lights of another car swept the drive, and James Walton's limousine drew up back of the doctor's car. Without a word, Walton alighted and watched Dale Randolph load Bert into the roadster. Then he motioned Lois to enter the limousine.

As she walked toward it at his side, he bowed to Dr. Randolph, and then said icily to Lois:

"I think even you will agree that it is a little too much to come home and find your admirers having a fight at the gates. I've closed my eyes to a number of things lately, but I really don't think I can let this pass."

HOLLYWOOD'S FILM SHOP

By DUANE HENNESSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 30 (UP) — Vacations and not the movies brought a number of actors and actresses to Hollywood and the movies kept them here, a survey of the studios shows.

Take Ruth Chatterton, for instance. Three years ago she arrived in the screen colony intent upon a rest and the production of the stage play "The Devil's Plum Tree." The result of this effort was an opportunity to play with Emil Jannings in "Sins of the Fathers".

Paul Lukas, who appears opposite Miss Chatterton in "The Right to Love", came from Hungary three years ago to visit New York. He decided to include Hollywood. Paramount executives heard of his professional reputation in Hungary and kept him here.

Selecting Hollywood as a honeymoon destination put David Manners in pictures. A friend urged him to take a test for the role of Raleigh in "Journey's End". He got the part and he was soon in demand.

George Bancroft is another vacationist who has been here for several years. And from his screen popularity he apparently is going to make a long stay.

Here is a bit of advice from William Powell, one of Hollywood's most tastefully dressed men—no man is well dressed unless he wears suspenders.

"The tailor who permits a customer to leave his shop without a pair of suspenders to accompany a newly-purchased suit is committing a crime against his trade," Powell said. "The suspenders need not match the clothes but they are necessary for perfect fitting of a suit."

OAKLAND, (UP)—Amateur curio hunters have long been a pest to Maurice Learner, head of a firm specializing in wrecking ships. He can't explain, however, the method used by the person who stole an anchor weighing 1,800 pounds from the old U. S. cruiser Farragut.

HE'S DOUBTFUL

Champions never come back — so they say. However, Joe Perello, winner in 1922 of the whisker growing contest at Sacramento, Cal., is now scoffing at the idea. Joe is sprouting a luxuriant growth on his face in an effort to again win championship honors at this year's contest. Joe, with several hundred other bewhiskered gentlemen, will participate in the pioneer parade in connection with the inauguration of Governor-elect James Rolph, Jr.

IN COURT AGAIN

Edith Ransom, erstwhile star in the play "White Cargo," has gone into court again. This time it's in Seattle, and she is suing Chief of Police Lcuis Forbes, Police Capt. Hedges and Dr. C. J. Rohwer for $100,000 as a result of her retention by police on charges of having stowed away in a steamer bound for the Orient. In her complaint Miss Ransom alleges misconduct and negligence on the part of the police officers and brands Dr. Rohwer "insulting and unprofessional" in his examination of her. Recently Miss Ransom sued the Matson Navigation Co. for $100,000, charging she was "shanghaied" and did not stowaway

5,082 MOOSE KILLED

STOCKHOLM, (UP)—The number of moose killed in Sweden during the three days open season this year was 5,082, according to official figures. This means an increase of more than 800 over 1929 and 1,360 over 1928. Since each animal is worth about $50, the total value of the moose killed in 1930 is about $278,000.

Let's Face the Future

—the Past is History

MANY will witness the passing of 1930 with a sigh of relief. It was a most trying year for the whole world. But—it has gone—we're through with it! Let us now resolve to shake off its atmosphere of depression and discouragement—wipe any fog of despair and hopelessness from our mental vision—lift our heads, face the facts and go forward into the dawn of a New Year filled with the undaunted courage and unalterable determination that is our heritage and has made this the greatest nation of which history has any record.

True, the millenium has not arrived. But, basically and fundamentally, conditions are sound; politically, industrially, socially and financially. It is only necessary that we adjust our thinking and calmly realize that our dreams of effortless ease and accumulations not earned by hard work and self-denial were merely dreams—to be laughed at, now that we are awake and on the job again.

We can readjust our budgets to fit our earning capacity and cheerfully get back to hard work, intelligent economy and sane living. To assist in the accomplishment of these constructive ends Safeway Stores pledges its entire material and mental resources and wishes you all a truly "Happy and Prosperous New Year."

Football Review For 1931

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(Unted Press Staff Correspondent)

The year 1930 in football was notable for a number of things:

1. Ten straight victories and another national championship for Notre Dame.

2. The largest number of crushing defeats inflicted on major teams.

3. Only four major elevens completed the year without a defeat or tie.

4. Resumption of relations between Army and Navy for the benefit of charity.

5. More widespread interest in football, although some of the major schools failed to attract as large crowds as in 1929 because of inferior teams.

6. Failure of the shifts to handicap teams using that style of play.

Notre Dame Supreme

Surviving the hardest schedule ever attempted in the history of football, Notre Dame in the writer's opinion, won the national title for the second year in succession without a doubt. By winning ten games in a row against at least one major team from every section of the country. Notre Dame ran its string of consecutive football victories for the past two years to 19.

Notre Dame beat Northwestern, 14—0, Army, 7—6, and Southern California, 27—0, on sucessive Saturdays.

Never before have as many major teams received such overwhelming defeats as they did in all sctions of the country the past season.

Southern California crushed its foremost rivals, California, 74—0, and Stanford, 41—12.

Notre Dame rolled up 35 points in the first half against Pittsburg and piled up 60 points against Pennsylvania.

Northwestern smashed Illinois, 32—0, the biggest score ever made on a Bob Zuppke eleven.

Vanderbilt went north and defeated Minnesota, 33—7, Dartmouth beat Columbia, 52—0. In the south, Tulane wrecked Georgia, 25—0, after the latter had twice invaded the east and won over Yale, 18—14, and New York University, 7—6.

Four With Perfect Records

Notre Dame, Alabama, Washington State and Utah were the only four major teams to end the season without a defeat or tie. Alabama and Washington State, opponents in the Tournament of Roses game New Year's Day, each won nine games. Utah won eight games, but did not go outside the Rockey Mountain Conference.

Colgate, although beaten by Michigan State, 14—7, in an early season upset, topped the nation in team scoring with 382 points. Len Malculso, Colgate fullback was the nation's leading individual scorer, with 144 points.

Alabama compiled the best defensive record among the country's major elevens. Only two touchdowns — 13 points — were made against the Crimson Tide, both of them on forward passes.

Army & Navy

After a two-year breach over eligibility rules, the Army and Navy met on the gridiron once more, playing before 75,000 at Yankee Stadium, New York, for the benefit of charity. A 58-yard run by Ray Stecker, Army back, in the final period, gave Army a 6—0 victory.

The biggest crowd of the season witnessed the Notre Dame-Army game, 110,000 spectators braving the cold and rain to see those two undefeated elevens battle at Soldier's Field. Notre Dame won, 7—6.

The Notre Dame-Southern California game drew 90,000 at Los Angeles, with demand for seats almost unprecedented.

In many sections some of the gridiron leaders of other years failed to attract crowds equal to the 1929 season, but this was due to inferior teams or bad weather in most cases.

Winning teams consistently played to larger crowds than a year ago. Notre Dame almost played to half a million. Yale even with a losing team, attracted more than 400,000.

The Shift

Legislation against the shift play failed to retard the offensive of teams using that type of play as much as the rule-makers had anticipated. Rockne, foremost advocate of the shift, believes that the present shift rule is better than the old one, and that the longer pause has helped instead of hampered shifting teams.

Few of last year's leaders were again able to land near the top again. Utah won the Rocky Mountain championship for the second straight year. Tulane, although beaten by Northwestern in an intersectional game, remained undefeated in the south for the second year in a row. Drake repeated as champion of the Missouri Valley. There were no other repeating champions.

Northwestern and Michigan tied for the Big Ten title, neither losing a conference game. Purdue won the title last year. Michigan was held to a scoreless tie by Michigan State and Northwestern lost its last game of the season to Notre Dame, 14—0.

The leaders in the major sections and conference follow:

EAST—Colgate and Army.
Big Ten—Northwestern and Michigan.
SOUTH—Alabama and Tulane.
FAR WEST—Washington State and Southern California.
SOUTHWEST—Texas.
ROCKY MOUNTAIN—Utah.
BIG SIX—Kansas.
MISSOURI VALLEY—Drake.

Many intersectional games were played in all parts of the country. One of the greatest feats of the year was St. Mary's trip across the continent to defeat Fordham 21—12, after trailing, 12—0 at half time. It was Fordham's first defeat in two years.

Washington State also traveled across the continent to defeat Villanova at Philadelphia, 13—0, Dartmouth went from Hanover, N. H. to Palo Alto, Calif. to lose to Stanford in the last quarter, 14—7.

Southern Methodist Univeristy of Dallas, Tex., made two long trips, pushing Notre Dame to the limit but losing, 20—14, at South Bend, and defeating the Navy at Annapolis, 20—7.

It was a bad year for many prominent coaches. Bill Roper ended his career at Princeton by winning only one game on a seven game schedule. Nibs Price resigned after California's disasterous year. Lud Wray was a failure at Harvard although urged to stay after the Crimson beat Yale, 13—0. Eddie Casey, former Harvard backfield star, was named to succeed Horween.

The year 1930 produced some of the greatest individual stars of all time. Among the foremost were Frank Carideo, Notre Dame quarterback, Fred Sington, Alabama tackle, Wesley Fesler, Ohio State end, Reb Russell, Northwestern fullback, Botchey Koch, Baylor guard, Marchy Schwartz Notre Dame halfback, Mel Hein, Washington State center, Bert Metzger, Notre Dame's 155-pound guard Bobby Dodd, Tennessee quarterback, Weller, Haskell Indians' halfback, Rhea, Nebraska tackle, Ticknor, Harvard center.

This Isn't a Moving Picture

But it concerns a number of big movie men from Hollywood, including Raymond Griffith, J. L. Warner and other eecutives of Warner Brothers' Pictures. The array of shotguns, shown above, accounted for more geese than the law allows. Said law, represented by the three game wardens in the picture, left to right, Taylor London, George Tonkin and A. D. Miner, swept down upon the movie folk near Oroville, Cal., made arrests in wholesale fashion and confiscated not only the geese, but guns as well, one of which was gold mounted and studded with several sizable diamonds. Three professional hunters accompanying the movie men assumed blame for the surplus birds and were fined in federal court in Sacramento

TURKEY SHOOTS NOT LOTTERIES; ACCORDING TO P. O.

SACRAMENTO, Cal. Dec. 30 (UP)—A turkey shoot is not a lottery in the eyes of the law, according to an opinion circulated to members of the California Newspaper Publishers' Association this week.

Therefore, turkey shoot advertisements n newspapers, do not violate the law, it is pointed out.

"Such ads," said D. E. Yoran, Eugene, Oregon, postmaster, "are in the same class as track and field meets, ball games, racing, swimming, boxing, wrestling and other athletic advertisements.

"The postal laws permit anything of such similar nature to appear in news or advertising, but they do prohibit entrance to or distribution through mails of any item or advertising alluding to any gift scheme dependent in whole or in part on luck or chance."

CLOSED TAVERNS CAUSE CRIME

LONDON (UP)—Crime is on the increase in Ceylon, according to the annual report which blames the rise to the closing of taverns. "There is no doubt," said the report, "that the closing of taverns tends to defeat its purpose by causing more crimes of violence than when taverns existed and liquor was obtainable between fixed hours."

Highway Named for Lindy

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UP)—A belt highway which will encircle St. Louis has been named the Lindbergh boulevard, after the famous flier.

CONNIE MACK GOT KICK OUT OF 1930 WORLD SERIES

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 30, (UP)—Although the 1930 World Series has long since passed into history, Connie Mack, veteran leader of the World Champion Philadelphia Athletics, still grins broadly when he meets someone interested enough to reminisce a little.

Mack derives the keenest pleasure when recalling the antics of Burleigh Grimes, star pitcher of the St. Louis Cardinals, whose "razzing" of Al Simmons, Jimmy Foxx, and even Mack himself, was one of the bright lights of the series.

"Grimes got on me when Cochrane was at bat in the second game Burleigh pitched," Connie said. "The count was two and one and Mickey glanced over to the bench. I gave him the signal more openly than I usually do. Grimes, a smart fellow, caught the signal. I quickly flashed a recall. Then Grimes started shouting at me something about being a 'master mind.' The first thing I knew we were making motions at each other.

"It is quit possible that Grimes, who had been laughing at Simmons, did not take enough care when he threw that one across that Foxx hit into the bleachers. Too much aggressiveness. I think, detracted from Grimes' otherwise magnificent pitching in the World Series."

BANK TAX STAND DELAYS LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE

By ELWOOD SQUIRES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Dec. 30 (UP)—The Legislative Tax Committee report is ready for publication, with exception of that body's recommendation on the much disputed 4 per cent net income tax on banks and corporations, the United Press has learned.

Members of the committee have not been able to agree on just how they do want to handle this problem, which was made a political issue in the last gubernatorial campaign.

There appears to be agreement on but one phase of the subject, and that is the banks, absurdly undertaxed by the net income tax, must pay more than the mere $740,000 which represents the total state tax on all banks in California.

Two courses are being considered, it is said. One favors amendment of the present act, eliminating the real estate offsets which shoved bank taxes so far down, while the second proposes an entirely new law.

It is believed the second plan means a return to the system in vogue before the present tax on banks and corporations was passed, assessing the banks on the share tax basis, although at a lower rate than formerly, and the corporations on their corporate excess.

This system was abandoned when state officials became panicky two years ago, and fearing adverse decisions rendered by the United States supreme court on share tax laws of other states might endanger the California tax, turned to a net income tax as a life saver.

At the time it was pointed out that the only argument against the share tax, which had caused its invalidation in other states, was the fact that the rate was too high on banks and too low on other moneyed capital, violating that section of the federal statutes which insists that national banks must not be taxed higher than competing moneyed capital. Certain officials suggested then that the California rate on bank shares be lowered.

But proponents of the income tax prevailed, with the result that the bank taxes fell off to a ridiculously low figure, and such companies as the Standard Oil paid but $25 state tax yearly.

Whatever is recommended by the tax committee must, of course, be finally passed on by the legislature. It is believed, however, that the lawmakers will accept the recommendation of the committe, which has been working for two years on the problem, and enact it into law.

New Invention To Photograph Heart Beats

Action Reflected on Mirro By German Apparatus

BERLIN, Dec. 30, (UP)—An apparatus by which photographs of heart beats and other body sounds can be seen in the form of oscillating waves in a mirror and can also be photographed at will, has just been invented by Herr Martiny, a Berlin engineer.

It is expected that the invention will supersede the old method of stethoscopy. The new invention, the electro-stethoscope, will in short do for stethoscopy what the Roentgen-ray apparatus has done for surgery and medicine.

The invention consists of two parts, the apparatus itself being a single whole. The first part, which is an application of modern radio technique to the needs of medicine, consists of a sound amplifying apparatus which greatly magnifies sounds proceeding from the body of a patient. The second part of the apparatus converts the sounds into linear waves which are reproduced and made visible in a mirror. In front of the mirror is fitted a camera and pressure upon a lever serves to set it in action when photographs of the recorded sound waves are required.

Experiments show that different types of waves are characteristic of various conditions of health. Another advantage of the apparatus is that it makes it possible for doctors to take a large number of pictures of interesting and important cases, the records so obtained being of a permanent nature.

Sailors Who Accompanied Byrd Tell of Sailing the Seven Seas

By Dan Campbell

HONOLULU, Dec. 31. — There's still plenty romance floating about on the high seas—the kind of romance that old shellbacks, sitting on a bit of rope and gazing out to sea, like to yarn about over a quiet pipe.

A story of such romance came to Honolulu aboard the sailing ship Tusitala in the living examples of Alf Robinson, bo'sun of the famous craft, and Maurice Woolhouse, seaman aboard her.

These young men, both from New Zealand, have been together without a break for nine years. They have visited every country in the world, mostly aboard sailing ships, and as a climax to their sea-going career they were members of the Byrd expedition to the South Pole.

Robinson sat on the edge of his bunk and gave a monosyllabic outline of their sea wanderings, between gulps of food and perusal of a stack of letters from all over the world.

"Toured the world from 1921 to 1927," he said. "Used sailing ships and motorcycles. Worked our way on the ships and motored overland when paid off. Didn't stop in port to blow our pay like most sailors. Been in 23 countries."

Piecing together his account, it was learned that they joined the Byrd expedition in New Zealand having been sent from New York as part of the crew of the City of New York, one of the supply ships. Robinson was third officer of the ship and also acted as an ice pilot on the voyages to and from the barrier, where Little America was established.

On the last voyage, Robinson recalled that the Bolling was unable to get through, but the City of New York being a tough old ship, broke through the ice and got the expedition safely out.

She made a record passage of 18 days from the barrier back to Dunedin, he said, having 70 men and 70 dogs aboard, besides considerable equipment.

Later, the City of New York picked Byrd up at Panama and took him to New York, arriving on June 19. Less than a month later Robinson and his pal were out for new adventure and joined on with the Tusitala.

PUBLIC OPINION HITS NOISY USE OF HORNS

By HOMER L. ROBERTS

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Dec. 30 (UP)—That quaint old custom of honking the horn on your car whenever you got into a traffic jam or to summon a friend from his home is now forbidden by law in California.

It can result in a trip to see the judge, and even bring a stiff fine. Thus far there have been few arrests for this offense, but public sentiment against noise is becoming so strong that it is likely the 1931 state legislature will take still further steps in this direction.

Once there was no law against the use of the muffler cutout. Today one might just as well ride through the streets with a machine gun wide open as to operate a motocycle with an open cutout. Some commercial motor vehicles are still manufactured with muffler cutouts on the theory that the effect is to produce more power.

The smoke nuisance has somewhat abated, due largely to better construction of automobiles. However, even today on certain streets a cloudy mark is created by a car with too "rich a mixture—dimming the sight and providing a disagreeable odor to the pedestrian. This nuisance can be prevented, and a smoking car put off the right-of-way if the authorities so desire.

Late model automobiles are being advertised with radio installation. Here is something that calls for as much or more regulation than illegal lights or brakes. Radios can be a distraction to the motorist or other motorists in traffic, but on the other hand they may also be a pleasure during stops on trips, when the traveler could get entertainment or valuable information about the weather and similar subjects.

As a measure of control the installation should include automatic breaking of the electrical contact which operates the radio when the car is started, preventing it from being operated while the car is in motion.

This same situation applies to the new "automobile loud-speakers" being operated by some cities as advertising devices. Local city ordinances have abolished these machines, and it is highly likely the state legislature may have something to say about them.

DEER GORES MAN

INTERNATIONAL FALLS, Minn. (UP)—An infuriated buck deer gored Charles A. Gadd, 64, Fort Frances, Ont., park superintendent to death when Gadd attempted to feed the animal. The deer was kept in an inclosure at Pitchers Point Park. Keepers were forced to shoot the buck in order to remove Gadd's body.

CONSTABLE QUITS JOB

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UP)—James Goodman, for 22 years constable of Bloomington township has resigned from his office rather than serve papers evicting three widows from houses.

WINDSOR, (UP)—A conscientious local council has discovered that King George had paid it $2.35 too much. The item in the records of the Egham, Surrey, council reads "H. M. the King (re Windsor Park); 9s. 6d. overpaid on this assessment for last half-year. efund to be made and set off against current rate."

CLAIMS SCATTERED DIOCESE

SA NFRANCISCO, (UP)—The Most Rev. Bishop F. S. Kempthorne, of Suva, Fiji Islands ,said on a recent visit here that he has the most scattered congregation in the world. Five hundred South Sea islands make up his diocese of the British Episcopal church. The bishop manages to visit 80 of the islands each year.

MENLO PARK

The city council met in special session Tuesday evening, all the members being present except Blake.

A resolution was adopted by the council accepting easements to certain streets in Stanford Park within the area to be improved.

This being the time set for receiving protests for street improvement work in Stanford Park under resolution 30-3 the clerk reported that no protests were received. The city attorney then presented the usual resolution authorizing the council to proceed with the work, to publish the usual notice and post said notice for five days. Bids for the contemplated street improvement will be received on January 13 at 8 o'clock.

Pedro J. Lemos, representing the Allied Arts, offered a verbal protest against the improvement of Arbor avenue saying that but few people lived on the avenue and that his concern owned the land on both sides for quite a distance. That within ten months his company planned to widen the avenue and put down ornamental curbs in keeping with the institution and that the improvements now made would be torn up. He thought the avenue should be omitted from the plan of improvement. Thomas Furman, residing on Arbor avenue, said besides himself only two others lived on there. He thought a strip of pavement in the center would suffice for the present. City Engineer Mehl said the whole matter was settled some time ago, when a conference was had between himself and the Allied Arts concern. It was agreed that a timber sidewalk was to be put down in front of the Allied Arts' property so that it could be replaced at any time. That the avenue could be widened when necessary without inconvenience or loss. Further argument was cut short by Mayor Weeden who declared the time for protests had passed but permitted the debate to go on to give the Allied Arts Company a chance to be heard. In reply to Furman, who wanted to know what protection the taxpayers had in case the contemplated work in Stanford Park, was not properly done and also what firm was to furnish the oil. Mayor Weeden declared there was an open specification for the oil. That every unit of the work would be watched as it progressed by competent inspectors and also by the council.

The Blue Moon dance hall was given a permit to run its dance on New Year's eve to 2 o'clock a. m.

A communication was read from the Bear Gulch Water Company in answer to the complaint of W. W. Sergeant regarding the putrid condition of the water. The company explained that all water supplies are now being chlorinated to protect consumers from possible water contamination; that the company was now installing a large solution feeding chlorinator at the enlarged Bear Gulch reservoir and this would remedy the matter complained of.

A letter was read from Attorney Stebenne asking that a permit be granted J. J. Furnivall to complete his building on Mills avenue and for which he thought he had a permit. The matter was referred to Building Inspector Mehl.

Officer Harvey F. Huestices, at the suggestion of Chief Love, was appointed a regular officer on the force, he having heretofore served as a special officer. The appointment was made possible by an amendment to the police ordinance at the last meeting.

By a request of City Attorney Witworth the matter of the moving of the store building on the property of the Associated Oil Company went over until the next meeting of the council.

The council adjourned to January 13, 1931.

James C. Foss, Jr., connected with the engineer's office of San Francisco, was here Tuesday securing data concerning grade crossings to be presented to the legislature when it convenes next week at Sacramento. The Southrn Pacific Company will be compelled to construct many underpasses, seventy in all, it is said on the peninsula. Mr. Foss and Mayor Weeden made the inspection and both men agreed that the one to be built in Menlo Park would be the one at Oak Grove avenue, this being the most dangerous and the one on which is the heaviest travel.

The grammar school, Menlo Junior College, St. Patrick's Seminary, St. Joseph's Parochial school and Sacred Heart Academy will all open next week to begin the grind until June.

The gentle rain from heaven that began falling Wednesday was very acceptable and a precious gift to the farmers and others who are in need of it. More would be pleasing to all.

Chief Love and his efficient force of assistants are hot on the trail of the young men who purlioned a tire and other articles from automobiles in front of the Menlo Park Theatre Tuesday evening.

The monthly meeting of the police officers of the county at Atherton Tuesday evening was an enjoyable affair. A banquet followed the routine business.

The marriage of a widely-known Palo Alto young lady and a Menlo businessman will be an affair of next month.

A sacred concert of Christmas music by one of the leading choirs of San Francisco will be given in the Chapel of Corpus Christi Monastery, Oak Grove avenue, Menlo Park, California, on next Sunday afternoon, January 4th, at 4:15 p. m. The concert will be followed by Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament. All are cordially invited to be present.

Th beautiful new home of Mrs. Frank R. Cain on San Mateo drive has been leased for a period of two years to professor Howard, president of Menlo Junior College. The house will be completed in three weeks when Mr. Howard will occupy it with his interesting family. The home is modern in every particular, cosy and with all the late improvements.

The duck season closes on January 14. Some good bags have been taken during the past month. Will Casy, the veteran hunter, has secured the limit many times.

The attractive tree in the city hall, the artistic work of Chief of Police Love, has brought many favorable comments from all those who have seen it. The little ones greatly enjoyed the bright lights and adornments of the tree.

Jack Doyle having purchased all the old lumber from the Dolan Wrecking Company secured from the buildings in the Coxin block is to erect several houses on his property in Stanford park. Mr. Doyle is a builder and contractor.

Mr. J. Seacore of Prescott, Arizona, has been taking treatment at the Base hospital during the past week and securing the return of his health, departed for his home a few days ago. Mr. Seacore is a friend of Officer Dyer both having been over-seas during the world war and having roughed it in Arizona searching for gold in their young years.

Many of the officers and members of Rolph for Governor Club will depart on Sunday for Sacramento to be present at the inauguration of the new governor. The party is to be special guests of Mr. Rolph. Among those going are D. E. O'Keefe, president of the club; vice-president, W. H. Weeden; second vice-president, W. E. Dale; secretary, W. E. Monroe and treasurer, J. Albright. Mr. Thomas, Frank Maloney, James Jenkins, Frank Kirkpatrick, John McLeod, Charles McGucken, Judge Hoss and many others. The club will have headquarters for three days at Hotel Senator.

HILLSBOROUGH MAN GETS LICENSE TO WED

A marriage license was issued in the office of County Clerk Elizabeth M. Kneese on Tuesday to Henry Horsley Scott, Hillsborough man, and Mrs. Edna Davis Stephens, also of Hillsborough. Scott is the son of the late Henry T. Scott, head of the Bell Telephone Company. He is an insurance broker with offices in San Francisco.

LIKES MIDWAY

Being a cable operator on lonely Midway island isn't so bad at that, according to F. L. Valentine, pictured above, even though mail does arrive but once every three months from Honolulu, and radio reception, due to abnormal static, is nil. Valentine, visiting now in San Francisco, declares whanging a ball around the 9-hole golf course Midway sports on its coral white sands absorbed all his spare time and kept him from getting lonely.

LEARNED HULA

And according to fellow passengers on the Dollar liner President Taft, Miss Marion B. Bess, San Francisco society girl, did justice to her instructors. Miss Bess studied the graceful hula in the Hawaiian Islands, where she has been for 7 years. Returning on the Taft to spend the holidays with her parents, she demonstrated the dance, and the consensus of opinion was that she had learned her lessons well.

HOW'S THIS, LADIES!

Introducing Miss Matilde Latona, pretty San Salvador girl, who, after a lengthy visit in the United States, recently returned to Central America—but not before giving some very straight-from-the-shoulder views on American husbands. "Nowhere in my world travels," says she, "have I seen the equal of American husbands in their devotion and affection. Despite this, I don't believe the American wife appreciates her husband. She should travel in other countries and see the marked indifference husbands in general manifest toward their wives."

Broadway and Side Streets

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (UP).—It has been the custom in recent years to turn the legitimate theatres along Broadway in the Times Square district into movie houses, but the method has been reversed in the case of the Colony motion picture theatre, which is now known as the Broadway and has just acquired as a tenant "The New Yorkers," a musical extravaganza which is playing to the highest grosses a legitimate show has ever earned in New York.

The high grosses don't necessarily mean the show will be a big money maker, for E. Ray Goetz, the producer, has opened with a cast of stars whose salaries approximate a minor war debt. The show also carries a heavy royalty burden, with Cole Porter, Herbert Fields and Peter Arno taking weekly percentages for composing the music, writing the book and designing sets and costumes.

"The New Yorkers" is notable chiefly for the antics of a mad trio known as Clayton, Jackson and Durante, the last named being the kingpin and the others his foils.

The other stars include Frances Williams, Anne Pennington, the dancer; Hoe Williams, the Social Register actress who goes musical comedy for the first time; Charles King, the popular juvenile lead; Richard Carle and Marie Cahill. Waring's Pennsylvanians add much to the show.

Helen Hays is back in her second play of the season, and this time in her more familiar metier as a comedienne. The play is "Petticoat Influence," authored by Neil Grant, an Englishman, and produced here by Gilbert Miller. Sharing honors with Miss Hayes is an excellent cast, including Henry Stephenson, John Williams, Valerie Taylor, Reginald Owen and Eric Cowley.

Christmas week, as usual, brought in a number of new plays and some revivals. W. C. Fields, too long absent from Broadway, returned with his comics as star of "Ballyhoo," a new musical comedy produced by Arthur Hammerstein.

Florence Reed, absent for several seasons, appeared as the star of "Furnly," an adapted French play sponsored by the Shuberts, who are also responsible for production of "The Truth Game," starring the author, Ivor Novello and Billie Burke, who is seldom seen on the stage these days

Jed Harris opened his second production of the year, presenting a new translation of Gogol's "The Inspector General."

"Five Star Final," with Arthur Byron, was opened by A. H. Woods. This play, purports to give the lowdown on the inner workings of a tabloid newspaper.

Ruth Draper opened for a limited engagement of her sketches; the Shuberts revived Victor Herbert's "Babes in Toyland" for the holiday trade; Fritz Lieber returned in his Shakespearian repertoire; Marika Cotopouli, famous Greek actress, began a special engagement of "Electra," in Greek; "The Life Line," a new play, was presented by Leo Bulgakov, and "Life is Like That," a new comedy, made its debut.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Dec. 30 (UP)—Beware of advertisements promising good wages for simple home work and requiring a small cash deposit. The advertiser will disappear after he receives the deposit.

EAGLES WIN FROM BERKELEY TEAM

The Redwood City Eagles kept up their winning streak in basketball by trouncing the Berkeley Athletic team in the Sequoia gym Tuesday night by the score of 38 to 14. Clyde Lutje and Tom Shine led the attack for the locals, the former chalking up four field goals to take high point honors for the evening.

The Eagles led at half time 26 to 8.

The floor and team work of the locals was very evident in Tuesday night's game and showed the effects of the coaching of Frank Griffin.

Next Saturday night the Eagles take on the San Jose Golds, the only team they have bowed to this season.

New English Fabric May Cut Bills For Pressing

BRADFORD, Yorkshire, Dec. 30 (UP)—The discovery of a process which may appreciably cut women's pressing bills and solve one of the greatest problems of the dress trade has just been made known here. It is a creaseless fabric which is to make its appearance for the Spring fashions.

The new material is made from a combination of artificial silk yarns with fine woolens. It will have a "crepe" finish, and is expected to start a new fad.

Dyers have been busy experimenting with the colors most suitable for the new fabric. They have decreed that "prune" shade dresses will be very popular next year. The new "prune" shade materials will be both in wool and silk, both for evening and afternoon wear. Electric blues and pearl grays also will be popular, they predict.
